

Supreme Court

[T]rust is built on consistent adherence to the rule of law.

The recent, radical rulings by the Supreme Court, which itself reflects political polarisation, have made clear that the law won't be applied in the same way everywhere. The legal framework that binds you will depend on who you are, and where you live.

Rana Foroohar,
Financial Times, July 10, 2022