

Taxes

The company's army of lawyers and tax advisers had used every loophole to ensure GE paid a grand total of zero federal taxes on its $5.1 billion of U.S. profits in 2010.

The company even claimed a rebate from the Internal Revenue Service.

That's what a thousand-strong tax department can do for its employer.

Edward Luce,
Time to Start Thinking