

Teachers

Back in the 1960s, public school teachers, on average, earned nearly 15 percent more than other people with similar educations. Now, even when health and retirement benefits are folded in, these teachers are making less than others with similar educations — about 10 percent less.

Elizabeth Warren, Persist [2021]