

Tech bros say

I'm seriously tempted to start fucking with people and pay for homeless guys to ride the Powell Street cable cars in the middle of the day, that ought to get the city's attention.

Peter Shih, founder of payment startup Celery, in a blog kvetching about San Francisco, including its 49ers – “all the girls who are obviously 4s and behave like they're 9s”