

Trumpism

The president manufactures a crisis, galvanizes his base around the challenge, leaves the definition of success undefined, pretends to play hardball, and, lo and behold, finds a solution that entails little more than window-dressing, if that.

For Trump, it's a win-win.

The loser tends to be the American people, oftentimes Trump's base, first and foremost.

Ned Price