

Trumpists say

Every action that the president took was taken with full constitutional authority pursuant to Article II of the United States Constitution.

As such, these actions cannot constitute obstruction, whether viewed separately or even as a totality.

John M. Dowd and Jay A. Sekulow,
Trump's lawyers, in a letter to
Special Counsel Robert Mueller